CALL FOR PAPERS OF 2017 INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON EVOLUTION OF MONETARY POLICY FRAMEWORK AFTER THE GLOBAL FINANCIAL CRISIS

Dear

On the behalf of State Bank of Vietnam, Banking Academy, Monetary Policy Department, and Forecasting and Statistics Department are co-organizing an international conference entitled “Evolution of monetary policy framework after the global financial crisis”. We invite the submission of papers in all areas of monetary policy framework, especially papers related to the management of central banks after the financial crisis. The conference will be held in Hanoi for one day, 20th of December 2017. The conference program will consist of paper presentation with discussants, keynote speakers and panel discussions from central banks’ representatives. This provides an excellent venue for prominent academics, researchers, policy institutions’ leaders and representatives to share and discuss research findings, experiences and practical issues.

The suitable framework for the conduct of monetary policy has been a major issue confronted by many central banks since the global financial crisis. The conventional monetary policy has been challenged due to the disruption of interbank market in particular and financial market in general as well as the zero lower bound for interest rate. In response for these problems, major central banks have adopted a wide range of unconventional monetary policy measures, in an effort to stimulate the declining economic activity. The challenges for central banks in emerging countries are even more acute due to the pressure from exchange rate, volatile capital flows, and structural economic reforms... The conference “Evolution of monetary policy framework after the global financial crisis” will lead to active and fruitful exchanges of ideas among participants, from theoretical to practical and empirical ones, including, but not limited to, the following topics:

- Unconventional monetary policy tools,
- New monetary policy transmission channels,
- Negative interest rate policy,

- Financial supervision model,
- Macro prudential policy framework,
- New models for financial and monetary forecasting,
- Experiences on monetary policy implementation from central banks.

Completed papers should be submitted in electronic form via email to empf2017@gmail.com no later than 10th November, 2017 and title your files in this order “EMPF2017_authorsname”. Please include your contact information and affiliation. Accepted papers will get the opportunity to be published on the conference proceedings under the review of a joint editorial committee.
